but you're not

Continuing your learning journey

The situation around COVID-19 is ever-changing, but one thing we want you to be certain of is that at HIT Training we have your interests at heart. Having reviewed all the current information available, we've made plans to minimise the disruption to your learning journey.

Our main aim is to continue to support you, regardless of the unique situation you find yourself in. We'll provide a clear pathway for you to follow that not only develops your knowledge, but helps prepare you for when normality resumes!

To kick things off, we'll contact you individually to understand your current circumstances. Together we'll agree a plan of action to best support you with the activities on the right.

Bringing Face-to-Face Online

During the time where we can't visit you in person, we'll look to deliver our face-to-face visits online. We'll be using interactive technology to ensure you're still supported on a one-to-one basis by your HIT Trainer.

STAR

If you haven't already, you can log-on to our e-learning platform STAR. Here you'll find lots of interactive resources and training activities to boost and develop the knowledge element of your apprenticeship.

Interactive Online Workshops

Our interactive online workshops are a great way to engage with your trainer and other apprentices to learn, ask questions and share your experiences. These workshops will include fun, interactive activities that everyone can get involved in.

Functional Skills

If you're studying towards your Functional Skills exams, you'll have access to our Skills Forward Platform. From here, you can revise and work on any of the areas you're finding tricky. You'll also be able to book extra one-to-one lessons with our dedicated Functional Skills Tutors and access our new Google Classrooms.

EPA Preparation

If you're preparing projects or presentations for your end point assessment (EPA), now is the perfect time to start brainstorming and planning ideas. Get these ready to share with your HIT Trainer during your next virtual catch-up.

All your hard work will count toward your apprenticeship's 20% off-the-job training. Just the same as the time you usually take off to study for an hour or two at work.

By continuing your learning during this difficult time, we can help you to really boost your knowledge development – So you are better prepared for the post pandemic future.
